There are several large affairs in prospect at the fort for the days preceeding Lent. These will begin with a hop on the evening of the fifteenth and will end with a Colonial party in the Post hall Washington's birthday. Invitations are out for a number of informal affairs, and the next month will see a general resumption of gaities at the little city on the hill.

Captain and Mrs. Richard Riftenberick have arrived at the post and are the guests of Major and Mrs. Arrasmith. They will be at home at No. 5 Officers' Row as soon as their quarters are made ready.

Mrs. Lafayette Hanchett entertained informally at luncheon on Thursday evening followed by bridge.

The good stork transferred his devours to the end of Brigham street during the week and paid a pleasant visit to Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Dern, leaving Mr. Fred C. Dern, Jr. before his departure.

Mrs. N. A. Dymon entertained at a beautiful luncheon on Wednesday in honor of Mrs. W. C. Higgins.

One of the prettiest home weddings of the week was that of Miss Lucille McMasters and Daniel C. Coulam, which took place at the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday.

Miss Pauline Sands was the hostess at a delightful theatre party at the Colonial on Wednesday followed by a supper. A score of guests enjoyed the affair.

One Monday night Mrs. Elizabeth Bonnemort was the hostess at a large theatre party at the Orpheum in honor of Governor and Mrs. William Spry. This was followed by a supper, at which covers were laid for twelve.

Upon the return of Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Paul from a brief trip to California they will occupy the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wey who will leave here the latter part of the month for an European trip.

On her return to the east, Ada Dwyer Russell will break the trip by spending a few days with relatives and friends in this city.

Mrs. O. J. Salisbury has returned from a visit of a couple of months in the east.

In honor of Miss Genevieve Becker of Adrian, Minnesota, Mrs. Frank C. Lowe entertained at a delightful Kensington Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Hugh Anderson and Miss Mary Louise Anderson will spend the winter in India. They are at present in Bombay.

Mrs. E. A. Cook entertained at a large theatre party at the Orpheum on Monday.

With the dull holiday season over, there seems to be enough stirring in the social breeze to keep the silky coated herd on the romp for the time that intervenes between now and the beginning of Lent.

The next few weeks will see more activity for those who sleep of mornings than any other period since the early fall, and if the new year continues as it has begun, the story of local society for 1909 will differ greatly from the chronicles of the year that has passed.
